

BRITISH SOCIETY OF TOXICOLOGICAL PATHOLOGY

OPPORTUNITIES FOR TRAINEES – 2017

The BSTP are able to offer one free place on each of our Continuing Education Symposiums (CES).

Applicants are welcomed from interested members and non-members of the BSTP.

The awarding of funding will be at the discretion of the BSTP Council.

Priority will be given to individuals working within an "early career" environment, for example, stipendiary students/researchers studying/working within a relevant scientific field, veterinary pathology residents and professional trainee pathologists working towards a professional qualification or gaining more experience within the field of toxicological pathology.

In addition, if the successful candidate is not already a member of the BSTP, they will also receive at least 12 months free membership of BSTP worth £50.

The deadline for applications for CES 8: Digestive System is Sunday 19th February 2017.

When applying you should submit the following:

- A brief CV
- A covering letter stating why this particular CES is of interest to you
- A letter from your supervisor confirming that you are working within an "early career" environment

The successful candidate will be expected to:

- Complete and return a CES/meeting registration form (sent to the successful candidate after the award has been made)
- Make your own travel and accommodation arrangements, once your place is confirmed
- Attend the whole symposium
- Write a short article (approx 500 words) describing either your own research, a brief overview of the symposium, or a description of how the symposium has contributed to your training/professional knowledge (this will appear in the members-only section of the website).
- If not already a member of the BSTP, complete and return the membership application form (sent to the successful candidate after the award has been made)

Completed applications should be sent directly to the BSTP Secretariat to allow for a decision to be made by the BSTP Council and the successful candidate will be informed in good time so that they can submit their registration form.

The BSTP are happy for you to disseminate this information to your colleagues within your group.
